Politics Requires Participation

"I'm only as effective as I am informed and I am only informed when you are engaged."

Neighbors -

Keeping our neighbors informed and involved in Salem is one of my top priorities. In fact, I rank this as a higher priority than the legislative functions traditionally associated with our office. I simply cannot be an effective legislator if I don't hear from you ... And equally as important, our shared advocacy in Salem is less effective when your voice isn't also heard. Thanks to constituents like you, I have one of the largest and most active Facebook communities in the state legislature. Last year, we had five townhalls spread around his large and geographically diverse district and I put on 30,000 miles on my car connecting with people in every corner of House District 59. I'm truly grateful for all the stories I've heard on the road and look forward to connecting with more of you in the future. But we can always do better and try to do more to reach our neighbors in new and creative ways.

This is our first electronic newsletter, I'd love to hear from you with your thoughts and suggestions on content for the future. As you can see from our office themes, I'm really looking for ways to engage WITH you and ... to bring in active participants within the political process. In the future, look for columns that dive into major conversations in Salem and some of our bill concepts. Also expect, a rollout of some of our efforts to engage the next generation in civic involvement. I am truly humbled to have this job ... but I recognize that it's greater than this moment. For House District 59 to carry on the strong traditions of leadership, it needs active citizens and a new generation of students passionate about politics policy. Thank you for taking the time to read my newsletter and for being an active participant in the political process.

Sincerely,

Daniel Bonham
State Representative

Joint Carbon Hits the Road

I am so pleased to inform you that the Joint Carbon Reduction Committee will be leaving Salem and reaching out to communities around the state to allow for you to participate in the discussion. This is an important step in driving forward toward the best environmental policy in the state of Oregon. By allowing rural Oregon to have a voice in the process, we can raise awareness of local challenges and articulate our needs from any potential legislation. I hope you will take the time to engage with us in this process. We look forward to your involvement.

Our legislative effort in 2019 is an ambitious one. From larger concepts, like fixing Oregon's school personal records loophole ... To smaller concepts, like improving land transferring within the highly successful Deschutes Forest Collaborative, or studying news ways that we can conserve valuable water resources. While many of our drafted concepts have been amended into larger legislative efforts, I wanted to take a moment to highlight a few of our legislative priorities in 2019.
