WG4 Public Comments 16 Oct 2017

Co-Chairs Hernandez and Marsh,

A number of submittals from early October cite the need for consideration best science.

- Pinchot Institute for Conservation
- Coalition for Communities of Color
- Oregon Health Authority

Our submittal with the title “Environmental Justice Built on Best Science” anticipated this active interest in the Work Group, and included our model of best science for this legislation. This was intended for access by the WG Co-chairs as well as WG participants, in the hope that in the absence of a better model it would serve as a key reference for the WG.

We believe the Environmental Justice and Just Transition Work Group is best positioned among other WGs to set the terms for quantified goals constituting a coherent plan to achieve a just transition to a more just environment.

The enclosure that contained our model for quantified physical science serving environmental justice appears now to have been posted at a link, “Additional responses to homework questions from Meeting #1.”

Your efforts are sincerely appreciated.
