So-called "clean diesel" bill is dirty politics

SALEM, Ore.-Today, the Senate Environment and Natural Resources Committee will hear Senate Bill 1008, the so-called "clean diesel" bill. Republican state Sen. Alan Olsen, of Canby, released the following statement:

"Senate Republicans are committed to crafting sound public policy. This bill is not it. The conversation surrounding environmental policy doesn't seem to take into account new technologies. We look forward to having a meaningful conversation on this complex issue that considers working Oregonians and their loved ones."
