“HCR 212 sets bill deadlines for the 2021 Regular Session which is after the next General Election. Sixty state representatives are up for election as are fifteen state senators. Binding a future legislature is unconstitutional per legislative counsel. Setting bill deadlines prior to election of new members then regulating the number of bills a new elected member of the legislator may introduce is wrong. It is discriminatory to some districts. It is bad practice. It defies the purpose of a democracy or the republican form of government. Status quo actions like this is why Oregon is now an economic basket case. Voted No.”
