Oregon Senate Votes to Increase Penalty for Strangulation

SALEM, OR. - Today, the Oregon Senate unanimously voted to increase the penalty for strangulation by passing Senate Bill 1562. The bill makes strangulation a Class C felony if the victim is a family or household member.

"Strangulation is a very personal and violent crime, akin to attempted murder, and our laws should reflect that," said Senator Bill Hansell (R-Athena). "This is a common-sense update with broad bipartisan support, and I am proud to have worked with Senator Taylor and my colleagues on both sides of the aisle on this important piece of legislation."

According to Clackamas Women's Services, strangulation is one of the most lethal forms of domestic violence, and a man who strangles a woman once is 750% more likely to later kill her.

"Near-fatal and non-fatal strangulation can leave the victim with long term medical effects," said Senator Chuck Thomsen (R-Hood River). "Recognizing this crime as a felony is an important step in expanding victim safety."

"The amount of trauma a person goes through physically and mentally when subjected to strangulation is indescribable," said Senator Kim Thatcher (R-Keizer). "Classifying that level of violence and trauma as a Class A misdemeanor is shocking, and we are changing that."

The bill will now head to the House of Representatives for further consideration.
