Senate Republican Leader Statement on Sine Die

SALEM, Ore. – Today, the Governor’s first special session ended without balancing the state budget, the fundamental job of the legislature.

Senate Republican Leader Fred Girod (R-Stayton) issued a statement:

“This session has been a huge disappointment because we did not get the budget done, and Oregonians were locked out of the process. This isn’t sine die because we will be back for another expensive special session that will pander to Democrat special interests.”
