Revenue Forecast: Pro-Job Policies Needed to Improve Economic Outlook

SALEM, Ore. – Today, the Office of Economic Analysis presented the quarterly revenue forecast which confirmed that the state continues to bring in record revenue but warned of future problems due to population stagnation.

“Flat population is a warning sign for the future of our state and is reflected by poor policy decisions that continue to hurt businesses and families. It is critically important that we leave behind status-quo policies and pursue pro-job policies that will make Oregon an attractive place to live, work, and raise a family,” said Senate Republican Leader Tim Knopp (R-Bend). “We can do that this Session by putting all our efforts into boosting housing production, lowering the cost of living, and addressing drug addiction, homelessness, and crime.”
